

First Candle: Eyes of Wonder - Thursday December 10

As we light the first candle and enter the Festival of Hanukkah, we give thanks for arriving at this moment and we acknowledge the blessings and the challenges of this past year. In the radiance of this first light, we give thanks for moments of connection, awareness, kindness, and love and we also honor the experiences of disappointment, sadness, and pain.

As Hanukkah begins, we rededicate ourselves to looking at the world with eyes of wonder and awe. We rededicate ourselves to noticing the blessings and lifting up the good. We do this not to deny hardship but rather to strengthen ourselves and enhance our capacity to bring goodness into the world. On this first night of Hanukkah, we join with the psalmist in saying:

"Open my eyes that I might see the wonders of the unfolding path." (Psalm 119:18)

Three Candles: Building Bridges - Saturday December 12

On this third night of Hanukkah, we lift up the ways in which we long for our world to be healed. We name and honor people who work for justice. In the light of the candles we pray for the courage, wisdom, and the willingness to reach across our differences and build bridges of connection for the sake of our nation and the world.

We rededicate ourselves to finding common ground.

From the mystery, the Holy One gazes upon humankind to see if there is someone who has the good sense to seek God in all. —Psalm 14:2

Light One Candle

Light one candle for the Maccabee children
 With thanks that their light didn't die
 Light one candle for the pain they endured
 When their right to exist was denied
 Light one candle for the terrible sacrifice
 Justice and freedom demand
 But light one candle for the wisdom to know
 When the peacemaker's time is at hand

Don't let the light go out!
 It's lasted for so many years!
 Don't let the light go out!
 Let it shine through our hope and our tears. (2)

Light one candle for the strength that we need
To never become our own foe
And light one candle for those who are suffering
Pain we learned so long ago
Light one candle for all we believe in
That anger not tear us apart
And light one candle to find us together
With peace as the song in our hearts

Don't let the light go out!
It's lasted for so many years!
Don't let the light go out!
Let it shine through our hope and our tears. (2)

What is the memory that's valued so highly
That we keep it alive in that flame?
What's the commitment to those who have died
That we cry out they've not died in vain?
We have come this far always believing
That justice would somehow prevail
This is the burden, this is the promise

Don't let the light go out!
It's lasted for so many years!
Don't let the light go out!
Let it shine through our hope and our tears. (2)
This is why we will not fail!
Don't let the light go out!
Don't let the light go out!
Don't let the light go out!

Four Candles: Gratitude for Creation - Sunday December 13

As we light the candles welcoming the fourth night of Hanukkah, we rededicate ourselves to caring for the earth. In the beauty of the flames, we remind ourselves that we live in an interdependent relationship with all beings, with all life. We affirm that this living, breathing planet nurtures and sustains us and that everything we do affects the well being of all. On this fourth night of Hanukkah, as we light the candles, we give thanks for creation, and we honor places that offer us beauty and refuge.

Bless the Mysterious, Infinite Unfolding of all, my soul. —Psalm 104:1

I Have a Little Dreidel

I have a little dreidel
I made it out of clay
And when it's dry and ready
Then, dreidel I shall play.

Oh, dreidel, dreidel, dreidel
I made it out of clay
And when it's dry and ready
Then, dreidel I will play.

It has a lovely body
With legs so short and thin
And when it gets all tired
It drops and I will win.

Oh, dreidel, dreidel, dreidel
I made it out of clay
And when it's dry and ready
Then, dreidel I will play.

My dreidel is so playful
It loves to dance and spin
A happy game of dreidel
Come play now, let's begin.

Oh, dreidel, dreidel, dreidel
I made it out of clay
And when it's dry and ready
Then, dreidel I will play.

Five Candles: Honoring Our Own Gifts - Monday December 14

As we enter the fifth day of Hanukkah, we rededicate ourselves to acknowledging that the Sacred Presence shines in every being. There are some people whose light shines so brightly—and there are others whose actions make it impossible to see even a sliver of goodness in them. On this fifth night of Hanukkah, we honor the lights we each offer to the world. And we honor our own lights: the talents and gifts we bring through the uniqueness of who we are.

It is sometimes challenging to acknowledge our own gifts and blessings. In the light of the Hanukkah candles, we remind ourselves that the world needs our light.

The world is made whole as we each offer what is ours to give.

As we light the flames, we reflect on some of the gifts we offer and set an intention that, as the candles burn, they clear away anything that is in the way of our light shining through.

To all that is I lift my hands. —Psalm 63:5

Six Candles: Interconnection - Tuesday December 15

We welcome the sixth night of Hanukkah by honoring the interconnection of all life. As we light the candles, we acknowledge that the choices our ancestors made helped to create this very moment, and the choices we make will help to create the lives of people we will never know. In the illumination of the flames, we rededicate ourselves to living with the awareness of interdependence. With each candle, we think of an example of wisdom or guidance that we have received from our ancestors, our companions, and/or from someone whose life touched us for a moment. And we also remember that often, even with out knowing it, we are guides for each other.

Send forth your light and your truth, they will guide me. —Psalm 43:3

Seven Candles: Lifting Up Joy - Wednesday December 16

On this seventh night of Hanukkah, we welcome the new month of Tevet and we rededicate ourselves to celebration and joy. It can be so easy to become overwhelmed and caught in despair by what is going on in this country and throughout the world. Without denying this reality, we lift up the delights of life.

Naming and noticing moments of joy, finding reasons to celebrate, joining in laughter and play strengthens and renews us. It gives us energy and increases our capacity to deal well with whatever we encounter. Embracing joy honors life and inspires new possibilities and direction. As we light the candles, we name and illuminate delights we have experienced and joys we have shared.

This is the day the One has made, let us rejoice and be glad in it. —Psalm 118:24

Eight Candles: Rededication - Thursday December 17

As we come to the eighth and final night of Hanukkah and the fullness of the light, we rededicate ourselves to living and acting in alignment with our highest values. We focus attention on all that we love; we raise up our ideals and visions and set an intention to let these lights shine.

In the lights of the eighth night of Hanukkah, we commit to act with love for justice, for dignity, and peace. We commit to acting even when so much has been lost. We commit to acting, not knowing if our actions will be successful. We will act for the sake of the rightness of the action itself. We will act for connection. We will act for the sacred. We will act in honor of all that we love and value.

Let the lights of the season guide us. Let the Sacred Mystery hold us. And let the love that flows through all creation bring us comfort, inspiration, and strength.

Come let us walk together in the light of the One. —Isaiah 2:5
